

Learning Disabilities

Some of these schools do not have an LD Program, but have been noted for their outstanding tutoring services and caring towards students who need additional support. Some of these schools do not want to publicize their LD Programs; in fact, some on this list don't want to be known for this, because of fear that a counselor will only think of them in this vein.

A parent needs to call the school and get specifics because programs change when key personnel move on.
